What is OCLC?

Connecting you to 70,000+ libraries around the world

“We are members working together toward a common vision, and it is through this shared vision that we hope to eliminate many of the barriers that prevent access to information.”

SANDY ASHWORTH, DIRECTOR
BOUNDARY COUNTY DISTRICT LIBRARY

We are a worldwide library cooperative, owned, governed and sustained by members since 1967. Our public purpose is a statement of commitment to each other—that we will work together to improve access to the information held in libraries around the globe, and find ways to reduce costs for libraries through collaboration.
OCLC is a worldwide library membership organization established in Dublin, Ohio, USA in 1967. It was founded by a small group of libraries whose leaders believed that by working together, they could find practical solutions for sharing records and reducing information costs. Over the years OCLC® has partnered with like-minded organizations from across the globe to become the largest research and library services enterprise in the world.

What began as a challenge to automate the traditional library card catalogue rapidly became a collaborative revolution that now involves thousands of libraries across the globe. The OCLC world headquarters is still in Dublin, Ohio, with regional offices around the world including Australia, Canada, China, Germany, France, Mexico, Netherlands, Switzerland, United Kingdom and the United States.

More than 70,000 libraries in 170 countries have used OCLC services to locate, catalog, manage, lend and preserve library materials. Researchers, students, faculty, scholars and other information seekers use OCLC services to obtain bibliographic, abstract and full-text information. OCLC and its member libraries cooperatively produce and maintain WorldCat®, the world’s largest library catalog, with information on more than 2 billion items in libraries around the world. WorldCat provides the foundation on which many of OCLC’s services are built. The new OCLC WorldShare™ vision includes a Web-based platform for collective innovation with shared services, integrated applications and streamlined library workflows.

“To continue to be vital to society, libraries must adopt new objectives. In particular, they must strive to participate with individuals in their cultural activities; passive, depersonalized service is no longer enough. Developments in modern, information-based society are forcing onto libraries this new objective of furnishing an individual with information when and where he wants it.”

FREDERICK G. KILGOUR
President of OCLC from 1967 to 1980
From “Evolving, Computerizing, Personalizing,” in American Libraries, February 1972

A foundation of shared data

WorldCat represents a “collective collection” of the world’s libraries, built through the contributions of librarians, and enhanced through individual, regional and national programs. WorldCat represents the electronic and digital materials most in-demand by information seekers, as well as the important, unique items found only in local libraries.

OCLC’s discovery services allow libraries to expand their visibility and reach on the Web by connecting information seekers directly to the relevant information in library collections. WorldCat.org™ makes the items in library collections visible and available on the open Web. WorldCat® Local customizes and enhances this service for a specific institution or consortium.

WorldCat data—contributed by thousands of member libraries from around the world—is the foundation for a variety of interconnected OCLC services for libraries. Working together, these services help libraries save money, increase efficiency and serve their communities more effectively.
More than products and services—a commitment to research and community.

Beyond the global scope of its endeavors, OCLC’s involvement in library research and original programs and its commitment to community involvement make it a truly unique organization. Research and development programs and insightful, timely publications and presentations make OCLC Research one of the world’s leading centers devoted to exploration, innovation and community building on behalf of libraries, museums and archives. Through awards, scholarships and fellowships, OCLC provides financial support to those beginning their library careers; to established professionals who excel in their endeavors; and to professionals working in rapidly developing countries.

Our advocacy efforts raise the visibility and highlight the viability of libraries within their communities. And through membership reports, standards activities and cooperation with library leaders worldwide, we seek to improve the profession for all librarians, staff and users.

The power of worldwide cooperation comes to library management

OCLC WorldShare™ Management Services provide a unified, Web-based environment that streamlines cataloging, acquisitions, license management and circulation, and offers a powerful discovery and delivery tool for library users. These services and related applications eliminate traditional operational silos and deliver new efficiencies in library management. This frees libraries from the restrictions of local hardware and software, and provides more time to focus on serving users and communities.

The OCLC WorldShare™ Platform is the technical infrastructure on which OCLC WorldShare services are built. It facilitates collaboration and sharing across the library community so that libraries can combine library-built applications, partner-built applications and OCLC-built applications. This enables the benefits of each single solution to be shared broadly throughout the library community.

Libraries worldwide have been working together since 1971 to create and build WorldCat. WorldShare builds on their achievement, providing new ways for libraries to operate, innovate and collaborate at Webscale.
Training and support resources

OCLC offers training and support to help librarians use its services effectively and address issues they face every day.

Live, online webinars, in-person instruction and self-paced Web tutorials cover a broad range of topics and allow library staff to receive training in a variety of methods. OCLC also maintains a national network of certified training partners for expanded continuing education opportunities.

Support for OCLC services is available online and via telephone and e-mail. Library staff are invited to sign up for e-mail updates, RSS feeds and various listservs for additional support resources.

Lavorando insieme, i membri OCLC esplorano le tendenze che plasmano il futuro di tutte le biblioteche. I membri OCLC condividono dati, lavoro e risorse, in modo da risparmiare tempo e denaro, migliorando al tempo stesso i servizi che offrono alle loro comunità. Questa sinergia, che rappresenta la summa degli sforzi di tutti i membri, accresce inoltre l’influenza delle biblioteche.

Esplora

I report dei membri OCLC sono preziosi per la qualità delle loro ricerche. Nel 2010 OCLC ha pubblicato “Percezione delle biblioteche” un rapporto che analizzava il comportamento degli utenti delle biblioteche, le loro abitudini di navigazione, le preferenze e le impressioni. Oggi questo rapporto viene ancora regolarmente citato, a riprova della profonda conoscenza delle comunità bibliotecarie che dimostra...

OCLC Research è uno dei più importanti centri di ricerca al mondo che si propone di esplorare, innovare e consolidare le community per conto di biblioteche, archivi e musei. Il team, composto da oltre 40 ricercatori e programmatori, collabora con i membri per risolvere le problematiche che maggiormente affliggono le istituzioni che si occupano del nostro patrimonio culturale.

“I membri che cooperano in OCLC condividono un impegno nella ricerca. Congiuntamente contribuiamo a modellare il futuro delle biblioteche promuovendo la ricerca, per informare l’opinione pubblica e diffondere una conoscenza qualitativa, dando un impulso al processo decisionale a livello strategico”.

WorldCat è il più grande, completo e affidabile database bibliografico del mondo, costruito dalla sinergia collaborativa tra biblioteche negli ultimi 40 anni. Oggi WorldCat include oltre 300 milioni di record che descrivono le risorse fisiche, elettroniche e digitali che le biblioteche annoverano nelle loro collezioni.

Oggi, grazie all’importanza del contributo dei membri in WorldCat, alcuni motori di ricerca come Google collaborano direttamente con la comunità OCLC per aggiungere i dati delle biblioteche di WorldCat nei risultati di ricerca, aumentando così la visibilità delle biblioteche associate e delle loro collezioni sul web.

“OCLC è una cooperativa di biblioteche, archivi e musei di tutto il mondo. Condividendo i record bibliografici, i dati delle case editrici, i record dei fornitori, le pubblicazioni in serie e tanto altro materiale, è possibile lavorare con grande efficienza”.

Aumentare la visibilità

Negli anni immediatamente successivi alla crisi economica la cooperativa bibliotecaria OCLC ha focalizzato la sua attività verso programmi per la difesa e la promozione del ruolo delle biblioteche e del valore aggiunto che esse apportano alle nostre comunità.

La collaborazione con la Fondazione Gates ha contribuito a sensibilizzare l’opinione pubblica sull’importanza del consolidamento del ruolo delle biblioteche negli Stati Uniti, un’iniziativa che è stata riproposta con successo anche in Germania e in Olanda.

Grazie ad una piattaforma globale di condivisione di buone prassi e idee, la cooperativa ha contribuito ad accrescere l’influenza delle biblioteche all’interno delle loro comunità.

Dì la tua

Nulla di ciò che facciamo sarebbe possibile senza la partecipazione attiva e l’input delle biblioteche membri. La nostra struttura direzionale dà la possibilità alle biblioteche di tutto il mondo di far sentire la propria voce.

Il Consiglio Regionale OCLC della Regione EMEA (Europa, Medio Oriente e Africa) si riunisce annualmente in un paese diverso. Anno dopo anno, comprendendo i membri l’importanza della collaborazione con i loro colleghi di tutto il mondo, il numero di partecipanti è aumentato in maniera esponenziale.
